

We will search for missing persons in any part of the globe, befriend, and, as far as possible, help them in difficulty. For example, LEUT. COLONEL OTWAY, James and Albert Streets, Toronto, marked "Enquiry" on envelope.

One dollar should be sent with every case, where possible, to help defray the expenses. In case of regularity of photographs, $100.00 (133) extra.

Officers, Soldiers, and friends are requested to assist us by looking regularly through the Missing Column, and to notify Lieut.-Colonel Otway of any case, give information to the person, and mark the name and number.

SONGS OF SALVATION

DONT TURN HIM AWAY

Time—Don't turn him away, John"
By Mrs. Adjutant Ritchie.
There's a voice that comes in your heart to-night.
You've heard it oft before,
You heard it first when you felt your sins.
Away in the days of yore,
Though weary and burdened and all
in gloom,
Your night was lit to day,
Don't turn the Saviour away from
your heart,
Don't turn him away.

You lost your hold on God and right,
 In an hour when all seemed dark,
 You little thought in wigel depths
 you'd go.
 Of how sin your life would mar;
 The Saviour pleads, as He did before,
 Oh, come to Him while you may,
 Don't turn the Saviour away from
 your heart,
 Don't turn Him away.
 The time will come, it will surely come,
 When you will long to see
 Him face to face.

Chorus.
Don't turn Him away,
Don't turn Him away,
He has come back to your heart
again,
Although you've gone astray;
Oh, how you'll need Him to plead
your cause,
On that eternal day.
Don't turn the Saviour away from
your heart,
Don't turn Him away.

"Behold I stand and patiently wait
And knock at your heart's closed door;"

The joy of the Lord He'll return
once more,
If you'll come to Him now and pray,
Don't turn the Saviour away from
your heart,
Don't turn Him away.

(The story of how the above song came to be written is to be found on page 5.)

ONE SWEETLY SOLEMN THOUGHT.

One sweetly solemn thought
Comes to me o'er and o'er--
How nearer the Home in-dye, to-day
Than ever I've been before.

JOY, BEHOLD THE SAVIOUR
Tune—"Joy, Behold the Saviour"
C. S. B. 843
Fierce and wild the storm is raging
Round a helpless bark;
On to doom 'tis swiftly driving
O'er the waters dark.

JOY, BEHOLD THE SAVIOUR

Chorus.

Nearer my Home, nearer my Home
I'm nearer my Home to-day
Than ever I've been before.

Nearer my Father's house,
Whither many missions he;
Nearer the great White Throne today.

Nearer the crystal sea
Nearer the home of life,
Where burdens are laid down;
Nearer leaving the cross now,
Nearer gaining the crown.

Be near me when my love
Am slipping over the brink;
For I am near to Hell to-day,
Nearer now than I think.

Chorus.
 Joy! oh, joy! hark ye the Saviour!
 Joy! oh, joy! the message hear!
 "I'll stand by until the morning;
 He's come to save you, do not fear!"
 Wreath, helpless, hopeless, scum,.
 Flaming on the neck,
 With what joy they hail their Saviour,
 As He binds the wreck.
 On a wild and stormy ocean,
 Sinking 'neath the wave,
 Seals that perish, herald the message,
 Christ has come to save.
 Daring death thy soul to rescue,
 He is now his come;
 Leave the wreck, and (O! trusting)
 Then sail the home!

INDIA

LORD AND LADY WILLINGDON ATTEND OPENING OF EXTENSION TO THE CATHERINE BOOTH HOSPITAL.

An important extension has been made in the well-known Catherine Booth Hospital at Nagore. Southern India. This consists of two wings and what is called an Eastern portion. The Southern Wing is for medical cases, while the Northern Wing contains the main surgical ward, erected by the generosity of Srini V. K. Bhagavathi Pillai Kothumma, daughter of His Highness the Maharajah. Adjacent to it is the operating theatre with the requisite annexes for anaesthesia and anæsthesia.

The eastern portion contains three private wards, one of which is fitted for European patients, and a main ward which provides special treatment for women. Two other private wards, each with its own kitchen, have also been created under a separate roof as part of the scheme, while the provision of nine further kitchens enables the food of patients to be prepared by their personal attendants without the necessity for contravening caste or religious scruples.

Lord Willingdon, Governor of Madras, who was accompanied by Lady Willingdon, was present at the dedication ceremony. Their Excellencies were received by Commissioner and Mrs. Blowers, with whom were Lieut-Colonel Percy Turner, M.D., the senior Medical Officer, and Mrs. Turner.

Lord and Lady Willingdon chatted cordially and freely with the Officers, and expressed warm admiration for the Salvation Army. They referred especially to the work in Travancore, saying that during their tour, which was just concluding, they had met Salvationists at every inn, and had received greetings from them in almost every part of the State. Lady Willingdon congratulated the Army on this latest and most valuable addition to its work in Nagore.

GREAT BRITAIN

FREE MEALS FOR THE UNEMPLOYED—BENEFICENT SCHEME CARRIED OUT BY THE ARMY IN LONDON.

As a means of relieving the growing distress amongst the unemployed of the Salvation Army is carrying out in conjunction with the "Daily Graphic" a scheme whereby the possessors of coupons from that paper can obtain free meals. The Men's Social Department has undertaken the heavy task of providing these at several London shelters.

To the hundreds of men who wait all day in queues outside the shelter changes or tramp weary miles in search of work they will be a great boon. At the Whitechapel centre the number of meals supplied has grown each day, and when the scheme becomes more widely known it is expected that many hundreds of men, women, and children will visit the Army's depots every day.

CHINA'S HEARTRENDING CRY

Millions Are Starving—Pathetic Stories Told by Army Officers—Urgent Appeal for Help

FIFTY millions of China's population are at this moment in danger of perishing with hunger. Not within living memory has there been such desperate want due to a famine which exceeds in severity any previously known.

Happily the Salvation Army has lost no time in providing relief, but its best efforts are limited to its means, and the General has issued an urgent appeal for help to enable more to be done.

Money Is Needed.

Not sufficiently is it remembered at this distance from the needy land that food is to be had without an equivalent of money, and that the extent of relief measures has necessarily to be governed by the amount of money available.

Can any one imagine the poignant feelings of our Officers, who are so eager and anxious to save pennies, the story of a compassionate Saviour, but who must first silence the heart-rending cry of starving men, women, and children before their money can be heard, and who find themselves comparatively helpless in still that cry?

In piecing together fragmentary evidence gleaned from various sources—letters written by Army officers in China and stories told by Officers recently in that land—it is possible in some vague way, to figure the sad conditions at present prevailing. Here are a few salient examples of information:

"Whole families of starving people came to the Army depot to eat their porridge." "I watched the poor creatures line up for their bowls of hot millet, and the lights were twinkling in the extreme." "One old woman of eighty-three was carried to the depot by her son, who just said that she was so tired that she could not walk." "Whole families in utter despair are committing suicide to escape the agonies of starvation." "Thousands are dropping their dead, wasted bodies about, trying to collect dried roots, leaves, and the like with which to ward off the haunting ravings."

Remember that fifty millions of Chinese are in a similar terrible plight, and you have some dim understanding of the deplorable conditions prevailing. Change the scene of the scourge to our homeland. Vision those millions of famine and despair in Canadian streets—the entire inhabitants of this country facing a slow, agonizing death by starvation, and sending a heart-piercing cry for food—and you get some nearer conception of the plight of Chinese.

At such times as this the work of winning the heathen for God can be advanced or impeded. Does any one doubt that helpless sufferers who receive bodily succour in the hour

FRANCE

Sixty Seekers in Marseilles Campaign

Lieut-Commissioner Peyron has conducted a routing Salvation campaign, extending over three Sundays, of dire need will not be more ready to take, from the same hands that brought earthly bread, the Bread of Heaven which shall eternally satisfy? Neither distance nor colour can insulate our God-favoured nation of responsibility in the matter. Even under normal conditions there is much poverty in China of which people at home can have little conception. Many go about in rags scraping refuse heaps to find food; and although they are a most economical people, nothing being wasted, millions live continually on the verge of starvation, so that when famine occurs, as now, the people have no resource to fall back upon, and thus conditions become desperate.

Much of this poverty is the result of ignorance and superstition. For instance, China has within her extensive borders much mineral wealth, but the people are afraid to sink mines for fear of the dragon which they imagine is under the earth. They think that by sinking very deep they may touch his spirit, and there will be an earthquake!

If the sad suggestion, of which this is one instance, could be driven from the country by the enlightening influence of Army teaching, much poverty and sorrow would doubtless disappear. And this hour of China's need provides an opportunity for our Officers to hold up the banner of Jesus, and thus scatter the heathen darkness.

Attracted by the Army.

Already the Army in China is well received; indeed, the people are much attracted by our freedom and simplicity. They like our singing and our drums, and there is no doubt that the lively and peaceful religion exhibited by our Officers makes an instant appeal to them. They will learn the Army songs and sing them, and sing them again, and again. Many by so doing not only find Salvation through the message of the song, but are instrumental in bringing their families to Christ.

Our very name—Save the World Army—attracts. This name was being written over an Institution in a country town some miles from Peking, when the Officer in charge asked, "non-Christian? Chinese standing near what he thought of it." "Oh," he replied, "your name reminds me of a strong man in the morning when the birds are singing."

This truly Oriental description, implying as it does the strength, purity, and happiness, is what the people really are characterized by. The Army's religion, the Army's present position is that of a man who lies stricken and staring by the roadside. A sermon will do him no good, but if he is brought down, bind up his wounds, pick him up and feed him, and he will then be ready to give an attentive ear to the story of a Saviour who has died for him.

At Marseilles, the meetings, which were exceptionally well attended, were held in a dancing hall, and arrangements are being made to hold similar campaigns in other centres in France, where, as yet, the Salvation Army is little known.

DENMARK

LIBERTY-COMMISSIONER POLYSEN IN AN INTERVIEW DESCRIBES MANY SIGNS OF PROGRESS.

"The Army's mission in Denmark is very satisfactory," says Lieut-Commissioner Polysen, a representative of the British "Cruciform" of the community mission, and the work is literally supported by townspeople and country dwellers. As Lieut-Commissioner Polysen, who is in the North, says, "The work is progressing well. We have been present for two efforts since taking command. At the first the total number of converts was 1,000, and at the second 1,500. The result shows a further increase to 10,000. In view of the fact that the condition of trade throughout the country is a striking comment on the progress of the Army."

At a meeting of religious workers held in one Danish town the speaker asked one present girl to tell us of her conversion. She said: "I was a hopeless drunkard, but I have now found Jesus. There was silence for a few moments, and then a doctor rose and said: 'I have no doubt of the genuineness of your conversion. Down at the Hall of the Salvation Army there is a woman whom I know of a hopeless drunkard, but she is a fully-uniformed Salvationist, praising God for all He has done.' By that sign I know that He has passed by."

"The highest hopes," said the Commissioner, "are entertained for the Great Hall Campaign. We have recently held Staff Conferences with Divisional Officers and heads of departments at Copenhagen, and the results have been most encouraging. The programme outlined with the greatest enthusiasm. Commenced with the Field Officers, have also been held in some parts, and others will be held during the next fortnight, so that soon we shall have met every Officer in the Territory on this important subject."

"Following a Watch Night service and two days' meetings were held in the Danish capital, at which 40 seekers came forward. In one of the meetings a husband, wife, and daughter walked to the mercy-seat together."

ITALY

SPLENDID SELF-DENIAL VICTORY.

Another Continental self-denial triumph is the result of the work mentioned a few weeks ago, Italy having made the splendid increase of 60 per cent. on the previous year total.

The figures are 1,117 lira as compared with 612 lire, raised by the efforts of a campaign lasting less than a fortnight. The lira is worth eighteen cents.

There he held seven Corps appointments and rose to the position of Divisional Officer. She and her husband have been in the service in Germany at various times of Women's Social Institutions, the last being in Cologne. The Brigade has been in some spirit and considerable success. When stationed at Kiel some years ago, there was an outbreak of diphtheria among the recruits, and she did much to alleviate the disease. During one of these outbreaks, she spent a winter's night on the deck of a boat in the harbor, inhaling the frost-laden air through her nose. Whether this was an approved remedy or not only medical science could affirm; but the fact remains that the symptoms had disappeared by the morning.

LIPPINCOTT (TORONTO).

Fine Musical Festival Given by Band and Songsters.

There was a large attendance at our Corps on Wednesday evening, February 2, when the Band and Songsters rendered a very interesting programme of music and song. Mrs. Wickes, our Cradle Roll Sergeant, arranged a tea for the mothers of our Cradle Roll members, previous to the festival, and a very enjoyable time was spent together. About twenty mothers sat down to tea, after which Mrs. Staff-Captain Knight addressed them. Our Corps is certainly making rapid progress in every department, the Cradle Roll section being well looked after by Mrs. Wickes.

The Musical Festival, which was certainly the best Lippincott has had for a long time, was full of interest. Features of the programme were the songs of the two of the young men, who were well received, and a very enjoyable time was spent together. About twenty mothers sat down to tea, after which Mrs. Staff-Captain Knight addressed them. Our Corps is certainly making rapid progress in every department, the Cradle Roll section being well looked after by Mrs. Wickes.

On Sunday morning the Band visited the Christie Street Hospital and choral the inmates up with their music and song, which was much appreciated by the boys. At night we rejoiced over two souls surrounding.

PERSONAL SKETCHES
NO. IV

Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Miller, Toronto

• Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Gideon Mil-

— Mrs. Lieut.-Colonel Gideon Miller (nee Bella Stubbs) who holds an unbroken record for thirty-four years' Officership, is a typical Canadian; being a farmer's daughter, the youngest of a large family, born in a log house. It is interesting to hear her tell of early day struggles on the farm, and of the crude methods of doing things in those days compared with the up-to-date ways of the present. And yet it was there that she received her education in thrift which has been of untold value to her as an Army Officer.

ccr. Good Christian Parents

Bella Stubbbs was greatly blessed with good parents. Her mother was a real, live, active Christian, a Methodist of the old type and with a high standard of Christianity. No matter how busy the season on the farm mother insisted on family worship. Mrs. Miller has been heard to say, time and time again, "I owe so much to my mother. She was every inch a saint. I was hushed to sleep as a child while she sang songs of Zion over me. She it was who taught me how to pray. I had just reached eleven years of age when she died. My best earthly friend gone from me, I thought my young heart would break. Oh, how I prayed that I might be good like my mother, and I vowed I would serve God, which I did in my child-like way."

she should have a good education. After passing through the public school, she went to the Watts-Strickland Collegiate. When about through with her schooling, and her mind set on following the teaching profession, she was called to the altar. She changed the whole course of her life. The Salvation Army had invaded the town in which she lived. This was in 1885, and Bella, with her brother (now Adjutant Strickland, U.S.A.), attended the meetings, and were converted. She took a decided stand as a Soldier of the Cross and the Salvation Army.

Boldly Took Her Stand.

No tongue can tell what it meant for the school-girl, Bella Stubb, to be a Soldier in those days. The Army was so strange and new. People did not understand its methods, and all kind of evil reports had been spread abroad, making it very unpopular. But, she had seen the heavenly vision, and the call from God was enough. Other girls would, and looked to find the same care of the results. She loyally took her stand in the open air. "I really

It did not change her person, she was going to the day she was so ridiculed and laughed at, and all kind of mortifying remarks were hurled at her. But she found "joy in faithful service." She loved the meetings, and made friends with her brother, went to school portantly to giving God glory for His grace and mercy. He said, "I am a drunkard, a gambler, and a thief," said one brother, "but the mighty power of God hid hold of me, and made me a new man. I am now standing up in a meeting like I would be giving testimony to God's salvation. I have been a drunkard, gambler, and thief, and now delivered from my old bad habits, and the great desire of my heart is to tell others of this wonderful power of God which help them to find peace in Jesus."

Adjutant Gateway (Lippincott) related a little of his experience. During his childhood, he was a gambler, he said, and when an Officer asked

Dr. Lavell, Chief Executive Officer of the Ontario Board of Parole, speaking recently at the Canadian Club, stated that the parole system had quite justified itself by the fact that ninety-three per cent of the men thus released had made good and become good and honourable

It will be remembered that the Salvation Army Men's Social has taken the Government's right hand in dealing with such cases, and in the month of a large number are placed under our care. Brigadier Fraser has for the past two years been associated with Dr. Lavel and his friends all the while holding meetings which are held periodically at the same time throughout Ontario. It is an uncommon occurrence for Brigadier Fraser to come from Burwash with a number of men thus released and committed to our care. It is not usual for a prisoner to thus released till one half of sentence has been served and many well reported upon by the authorities.

will be interesting to know that following Officers act as Chaplains and in most cases are the only official advisers to the prisoners: First-Captain Bloss, Minnico; Adjutant and Mrs. Adams, Burwash; Adjutant and Mrs. Barry, Guelph; Commandant McElhiney, Langstaff Farm; Commandant McRae, Doon, Toronto; Mrs. Commandant McElhiney, The Mercer, Toronto.

In addition to work carried out

In the life of Mr. Finney it is related that during a revival at Rome, N.Y., the air seemed surcharged with divine power. A sheriff, who had laughed about the meetings, came over from Utica. He felt this strange influence when he crossed the old canal, a mile west of the town. When he sat in the hotel dining-room he had to get up two or three times to divert his attention and keep from weeping. After dinner he hurried away, but was afterwards reported to have been converted.

Captain Haynes, Kingsville, wants words of a song which go to the tune of "Let the rest of the world go by."

Remember that your will is likely to be crossed every day; so prepare for it.

Look on each member of the family as one for whom you should have a care.

When any good happens to anyone, rejoice on that account.

When you are inclined to sin,

The officers above, who are wholly employed, almost all the Social Officers at the various towns and cities visit the local and county Jail Officers to see the prisoners.

The Chatham monthly jail report shows that Captain Squarbrick presided at three meetings, attended by twenty and twenty-one respectively that prayer was requested three times and three professions of conversion.

The Captain also had eight interviews with men in the cells. The Police Court also sentenced thirty-two interwined, four handed over to the care of the Army, and four returned to friends.

The report for Montreal for January shows that Brigadier McMillan and Adjutant Picheur had 482 interviews and spoke for 123 cases at the courts, forty-eight of whom were handed over to the Salvation Army, fourteen of whom were given employment, nineteen returned to friends, and others were found employment. At the jail also 152 personal interviews were held with men, 24 meals given and 86 beds

Statistics are often read very casually and often without much thought, but the above figures for Montreal represent a vast amount of real good. Hope revived, lives frightened, parents cheered, feet planted in the right way, daddy welcomed home, mothers reunited with wayward girls, family rejoicing, angels chanting praise to God over wanderers returned. To God be all the glory.

The writer's wish in Peterboro will long be remembered. It was a reunion with many old English comrades. It was also a pleasure to see how the children and grandchildren are following on. In the Sunday morning meeting two children of Baudens and Sister Wells were dedicated. Handley Wells is the son of the late Billy Wells of Reading, England, a converted comedian. Billy Wells captivated the well-known solo, "Who's that knocking at your heart's closed door?" Reading and Leeds are very largely re-

Mrs. Adjutant Hinton and her work as a Police Matron was referred to by the chairman on Sunday afternoon, who remarked that "Peterborough" citizens were grateful to the Salvation Army in general, and to Mrs. Hinton in particular, for the splendid work at the Police Court.

Staff-Captain Church and Adjutant Clayton conducted meetings at Langstaff Jail Farm for men and at Concord Women's Reformatory on Sunday. Seventeen of the men stood in their feet to signify their acceptance of Christ, and ten women raised their hands for prayer.

angry answer "overcame evil with good," you can do it in the strength of God. It is the soft answer that turneth away wrath.

If from sickness, pain, or infirmity you feel irritable, keep a strict watch over yourself.

Observe when others are suffering, and drop a word of kindness or sympathy suited to them.

Watch the little opportunities of pleasing others, and put the little annoyances out of the way.

Take a cheerful view of everything, even of the weather: encourage

Sister Mrs. Foster, Aurora. The first Messenger has visited our Corps and has met our valuable Soldiers, in the person of Brother Foster. After three weeks of absence, he has returned safe and sound, and is rated passed away to be with Jesus. She always had a bright testimony of his faith and before she died he visited her and said, "I will be with you in the shadow of death I will fear no evil." This was the testimony of her faith and the testimony of each of us, then, turning to our sister and said, "We shall miss you very much, but we are glad our comrade very much." He was an active worker in the Home League, also a member of the Adulph Club. His funeral was held on a recent date, and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends.

On Sunday night we had a memorial service, and a good crowd turned out. Sister Mrs. Andrews, the Home League Secretary, spoke on behalf of the sisters of the Corps. Treasurer, Proctor, Sergt.-Major Smith and Brother E. Andrews also spoke of our dear sister. A solo was rendered by Mrs. Morrison. We finished up with six souls in the fountain, one being the daughter of our departed sister, one a daughter-in-law, and one a grandson. May the God of all comfort bless and help all the bereaved ones.—Wm. Morrison, Captain.

Sister Mrs. Chamberlain, Bracebridge.

On Tuesday, January 25, the Messenger of Death visited the Brachthers and Sister Mrs. Chamberlain. Home Telephone 124. Chamberlain answered the call, after twenty years of active service for her Lord as a Soldier of the Corps. Many tributes are paid to her memory by friends and Soldiers, who will miss her. Chamberlain died godly and consoling herself to herself to them. She desired greatly to see and hear the General and attend the meetings at Toronto, and God graciously gave her the privilege of doing so. She came back feeling rested in soul and contented in mind. These were the last public services she attended.

Her testimony was bright, and her faith in her Saviour strong till the end. She spoke readily of her being ready for death to her loved ones and those who visited her bedside. Her last words audibly heard were "Jesus help me across."

Ensign Moffat, of Hampton Co.

former Corps Officer) assisted at the funeral and memorial services, which were both impressive and attended by a large circle of relatives, friends, and comrades, who mourn the loss of a zealous worker for Christ at the memorial service, one of our granddaughters of our departed comrade, and many shall desire to call her blessed and dear name to their end may be like angels. To Brother Chamberlain and family, who mourn her loss, our deepest sympathy is extended and our prayers go up to God in their behalf for comfort.—A McDonald, Secretary.
